1. INTRODUCTION

According to Rohmadi (2008: 24), articles are writings that describe or explain an idea based on facts. These articles are also called popular scientific articles. In writing popular scientific articles, writers often only pay attention to the content of the writing, but there are important things that must be considered by writers, namely the use of spelling. The use of proper spelling is necessary for writing articles, because, if the spelling is not good, readers will have difficulty understanding the content of the writing. Spelling is a set of systems used to transfer spoken language into a written language (Semi, 1990: 95).

Waridah and Khairunnisa (2016: 6-52), suggest that the rules for using Indonesian spelling based on the regulation of the minister of education and culture of the Republic of Indonesia number 50 of 2015 are the use of letters, word writing, use of punctuation marks, and writing of absorption elements. When writing, the writer must understand how to use spelling properly. Good writing cannot be obtained without skill with spelling. Errors in the use of spelling can be found in newspapers, in magazines, and wall magazines at SMA Padang Selatan. However, this study only focused on articles in-wall magazines at SMA Padang Selatan. During the observation, it can be seen that there are a lot of mistakes in using spelling in the articles on the wall magazine. Also, the wall magazine manager and the school seemed to pay less attention to errors in student writing, so that students did not pay attention to spelling in writing articles. In-wall magazines, there are many types of writing, such as short stories, comics, poetry, articles, announcements, biographies, and news. In student writing on wall magazines, there are many spelling mistakes, especially in articles. Examples of spelling errors in student writing can be seen in the quotations below:

"Perlakuan kurang baik terhadap wanita merupakan gambaran bahwa baik bumi maupun perempuan mendapat perlakuan yang kurang baik sehingga mengakibatkan kerusakan dan penindasan"

In this quote, it can be seen that there is an error in writing a word that does not use a hyphen (-) in the word "get". The author does not use hyphens in words that are interrupted by line breaks. It can be seen that students do not understand the use of hyphens. Based on the above problems, it is necessary to research the Misuse of Indonesian Spelling in scientific articles on the Wall Magazine of schools in South Padang.

2. METHODS

This type of research is qualitative with descriptive methods. The data in this study are all words or sentences that have errors in the use of Indonesian spelling found in the articles, while the data sources for this study are articles published from January to July 2017 in-wall magazines at SMA Padang Selatan. According to Moleong (2010: 168), the instrument is a means of collecting data such as tests in quantitative research. The main instrument in this study is the researcher himself who acts as a planner, data collection, data interpretation, and reporting of research results. Another instrument in this study is the data inventory table which is used to assist in grouping data, making it easier to conclude the data found. According to Sudaryanto (1993: 133), data collection techniques are divided into listening and proficient methods. In this research, listening techniques will be used, namely listening techniques without proficient... involvement and note-taking techniques. To check the validity of the data in this study, a triangulation technique was used. Triangulation technique according to Moleong (2010: 330), is a data validity checking technique that utilizes something other than that data for checking purposes or as a comparison of data. According to Sudaryanto (1993: 13) data analysis techniques are divided into two, namely the equivalent and agih methods. This research will use the method of agih.

3. RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

Based on the data analysis above, there are many mistakes in the use of Indonesian spelling in articles in-wall magazines at SMA Padang Selatan. The errors include the use of letters, including the use of capital letters and italics. Writing words, including affixed words, rephrases, and prepositions. Use of punctuation, including period punctuation, comma punctuation, and hyphen punctuation.

1. The use of letters

a. Capital

In the use of letters, there are errors in the use of capital letters and the use of italics. The use of capital letters there is 185 errors out of 15 rules in using capital letters. Fifteen rules for using capital letters, 13 rules are violated. The most frequently violated rule is that capital letters are used as the first letter of every word in the titles of books, essays, articles, and papers as well as the names of magazines and newspapers, while the rules that are violated the least are capital letters are used as the first letters of the names of the nation, ethnic group, and language. The number of errors in the use of capital letters results in the reader's understanding of the content and the intent to be conveyed. In this case, the error can be explained as follows:

a. Italic

In the use of italics, there are 40 errors out of the 3 rules in italics. Three rules in the use of italics found that one rule was violated, namely italics used to write words or expressions in regional or foreign languages. The many errors in using italics will make the reader less aware of the meaning of the word or expression used in the foreign language form. The error in using italics can be seen in the example below,

Beberapa zat gizi yang banyak ditambahkan kedalam roti adalah vitamin, seperti thiamin (vitamin B1), riboflavia (vitamin B2) dan hiasin serta sejumlah mineral berupa zat besi, iodium, kalsium, dan lain-lain.

In the quote above there is an error in using italics, it should be in writing words in foreign languages using italics. Following the Indonesian Spelling Rules (2016: 14). The correct writing is:

Beberapa zat gizi yang banyak ditambahkan kedalam roti adalah vitamin, seperti thiamin (vitamin B1), riboflavia (vitamin B2) dan hiasin serta sejumlah mineral berupa zat besi, iodium, kalsium, dan lain-lain.

2. Word Writing

In writing words, there are errors in writing words with affixes, reforms, and prepositions.

a. Affix Word Writing

In writing affix words, there are 4 errors out of the 2 rules. The two existing rules have one rule that is violated, namely the affix (prefix, insertion, suffix, and combination of prefix and suffix) written in series with the basic form. Although there are not too many errors found, they are very influential in the reader's understanding. Examples of writing errors with affix words can be seen in the example below:
pencapaian emansipasi akan sempurna di barengi kesuksesan mengurus keluarga.

In the word "di barengi" the writing should be combined because the word uses a prefix and a suffix. This is not following the rules for the use of Indonesian Spelling (2016: 17). The correct writing is:

pencapaian emansipasi akan sempurna dibarengi kesuksesan mengurus keluarga.

b. Writing Forms of affix rephrases

Rewriting the form there are 2 errors from 1 rule in writing affix words. The rule that was violated was the rewritten form using a hyphen (-) between the elements. Although there are not too many errors found, they are very influential in the reader's understanding. An example of a rewriting error can be seen in the example below.

Oleh karena itu betapa pentingnya tubuh, mengkonsumsi makanan yang bergizi dan mengandung unsur2 yang dibutuhkan oleh tubuh meskipun makanan itu tidak harus mahal.

In the word “unsur2”, it should be given a hyphen between the word elements. This is not following the rules for the use of Indonesian Spelling (2016: 19). The correct writing is:

Oleh karena itu betapa pentingnya tubuh, mengkonsumsi makanan yang bergizi dan mengandung unsur-unsur yang dibutuhkan oleh tubuh meskipun makanan itu tidak harus mahal.

c. Preparation of prepositions

Writing prepositions there are 24 errors from 1 rule in writing prepositions. The rules that were violated were prepositions, such as "di", "ke", and "dari" written in series with the preceding word. The number of errors found affects the reader's understanding of understanding the meaning of the contents of the article. Examples of rewriting errors can be seen in the example below:

Sumber protein terbaik dibumi.

In a word, dibumi should have separated the preposition on the earth. This is not following the rules for the use of Indonesian Spelling (2016: 25). The correct writing is:

Sumber protein terbaik di bumi.
3. Use of Punctuation

In the use of punctuation, there are errors in the use of period punctuation, comma, and hyphen punctuation marks.

a. Punctuation of Periods (.)

The use of punctuation marks has 2 errors out of 5 rules. The five existing rules have one rule that is violated, namely a period is used at the end of the statement sentence. Although there are not too many errors found, they are very influential in the reader's understanding. Examples of errors in using punctuation marks can be seen in the example below.

Salah satu akibat konsumsi roti yang kian merkayat itu adalah penambahan berbagai zat gizi kedalam roti, serat, misalnya, dedak dalam gandum yang dulu disingkirkan dalam roti putih karena dianggap makan ternak.

It should be marked with a period at the beginning of the word in the quote, it should not have a period at the beginning of the word. This is not following the rules for using Indonesian Spelling (34). The correct writing is:

Salah satu akibat konsumsi roti yang kian merkayat itu adalah penambahan berbagai zat gizi kedalam roti, serat, misalnya, dedak dalam gandum yang dulu disingkirkan dalam roti putih karena dianggap makan ternak.

b. Use of Commas (,)

The use of commas punctuation has 16 errors out of 10 rules. In the ten existing rules, there was one rule that was violated, namely a comma was used between the elements in a breakdown or enumeration. The number of errors found affects the reader's understanding of understanding the meaning of the contents of the article. Examples of misuse of commas can be seen in the example below:

Buah merah memiliki panjang 55 cm diameter 10-15 cm dan berat 2-3 kg.

At the end of the word, cm should be marked with a comma because the example sentences above are elements of numeration or detailing. This is not following the rules in Indonesian Spelling (2016: 37). The correct writing is:

Buah merah memiliki panjang 55 cm, diameter 10-15 cm, dan berat 2-3 kg.
c. Use of Hyphens (-)

The use of hyphens has 6 errors out of 7 rules. The seven existing rules have two violated rules, namely, the hyphen is used to mark the part of the word that is cut off by the line and the hyphen is used to connect the elements of the republished word. The number of errors found affects the reader's understanding of understanding the meaning of the contents of the article. Examples of errors in using hyphenated marks can be seen as follows:

Errors in Hyphens are used to mark parts of a word that are cut off by a line change

The error in using a hyphen that marks the part of the word that is cut off by a line is in the data source code (03), namely:

Yang dikenal di papua lantaran dapat mengobati penyakit kangker, kemudian agustin di berikan ekstrak buah merah yang dikonsumsi 3x sehari.

On the word, di and berikan should have been hyphenated because the word was cut off by a line break. This is not following the rules in Indonesian spelling (2016: 44). The correct writing is:

Yang dikenal di papua lantaran dapat mengobati penyakit kangker, kemudian agustin di-berikan ekstrak buah merah yang dikonsumsi 3x sehari.

Error hyphens are used to reconnect word elements

The error of a hyphen connecting the repeated element is in the data source code (05), namely:

Tidak masalah kita berbeda pandangan asalkan kita masih berpegangan tangan untuk mewujudkan impian yang dimainkan-pernikahan.

On the word dimainkan-pernikahan it shouldn't be hyphenated because dimainkan-pernikahan, not a rephrased element. This is not following the rules in Indonesian spelling (2016: 44). The correct writing is:

Tidak masalah kita berbeda pandangan asalkan kita masih berpegangan tangan untuk mewujudkan impian yang dimainkan pernikahan.

4. CONCLUSION
